Ignite! Impact Award Winner: Kevin Ballou, Celly-Port A Prison Cell On Wheels Ingenuity is proud to be hosting the kick-off event for Celly-Port, a traveling prison cell art installation that showcases the harsh realities of the Prison Industrial Complex on Sunday, July 24th. The goal of this project is to spark the conversation and actions we can take to change the carceral system from a paradigm of punishment and trauma to one based in healing and education. There will be music, theatrical performances, a short film showing and group conversations on how we can re-create a system where we deal with societal issues. Admission is free, so come get involved! This project premiered at IngenuityFest 2019, and continues to be supported, in part, by SPACES and The Andy Warhol Museum's Satalite Fund and an Ingenuity Ignite! Impact Award.
